Who is Yasira Sonnier ?

YASIRA SONNIER is an Author, Speaker, Business Development Specialist and Change Champion for single mothers in transition. Through her own personal experience from beginning again in New York, North Carolina and Texas she found a passion in helping the single multitudes. While building a successful business and raising her children, Yasira is using her knowledge as a proponent for women who are stagnant and desire to start anew. She shares both her struggles & triumphs with finances, job placement, motherhood and finding love all over again.

Yasira, is the author of an urban fiction three part novela book titled Oblivious. She created this platform in hopes of being able to reach a wider target audience, while focusing on her role as an advocate for women who want to begin again.

As a business development specialist, Yasira, recognizes the importance of being able to connect with individuals on an emotional level. Oblivious, was written with YOU in mind!

For as long as Yasira could remember, she has always wanted to write a book, in one of her favorite genres to read and finally she has been able to accomplish that while empowering others. She is also the creator of #WhatNow and the founder of The Sonnier Group. Yasira is extremely active in her community and continues to be a voice for those that live in poverty.

She is also the creator of #WhatNow and the founder of The Sonnier Group. Yasira is extremely active in her community and continues to be a voice for those that live in poverty.

Most recently she joined forces with Iron Tribe Never Thirst in helping build fresh water wells for families in Cambodia and India. She has facilitated workshops titled “Just Stand By Hope, Faith, Love & Your Truth”, “In Eyes View” at Park Youth Ranch and most recently “B.Y.O.I (Bring Your Own Identity)”. Yasira is also active with North Houston Frontiers Club an organization that aids minority students with scholarships. She mentors several women on a daily bases and is passionately committed to helping single family homes with food, basic life business skills and school supplies.

She offers private and group training, public speaking and one on one coaching using customized interactive messages to provoke single mothers everywhere to find their hope and build their future one conversation at a time. She is also available to help you or your organization develop a brand with a mission statement that you desire. She utilizes techniques to bridge the gap between Corporate America and it’s surrounding communities.

Yasira is happily married to Chris and has two handsome boys ages 8 and 10.
